FUNERAL OF DOWIE QUIET AND SIMPLE

Many of His Followers Sought to Touch the Hem of His Burial Garment.

CHICAGO, ILL., March 14.—The funeral of John Alexander Dowie was held in Zion City today, the interment being in Lake Mound Cemetery, in Zion City. Early in the day it was believed that the funeral might be postponed because of the action of the workmen who were constructing the vault in the cemetery. When entering the cemetery this morning they found the gate, and the management of the cemetery at once demanded a warrant for the arrest of Gladstone Dowie, charging him with the damage. The police took the matter under advisement, and the matter was finally smoothed over, and young Dowie was permitted to enter.

NEWS GATHERED FROM SOUTHSIDE

Elks to Have Big Bazaar Early in May—To Be Held on Grounds.

BRIDGE IS IN PLACE

Local Talent to Produce "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 102 Hull Street.

The Bazaar committee of Manchester Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, met at the Home last night and definitely decided that the bazaar should be held, commencing May 6th and continuing until May 20th.

It was also positively decided that the bazaar should be held on the grounds of the Elks' Home, and in a frame structure 40x50 feet yet to be erected.

The building will be well ventilated; and water-proof. A stage will be located in one end, and a dancing pavilion in the other. The remainder of the building will be devoted to the various booths.

This bazaar promises to be one of the largest ever seen in Manchester. Already the various booth committees have been appointed, and have been at hard work arranging matters.

The funds derived from the bazaar will be turned over to the board of governors to assist them in defraying the expense contracted in the recent purchase of the Home, which the Elks now occupy.

The bridge over the Southern tracks at the extension of Cowardin Avenue was put in place yesterday. The structure, which is seventy-seven feet in length and six feet wide, was put together on the ground, and by means of a derrick was raised and placed upon the abutments.

This bridge leads to Belle Isle, where several hundred Manchester citizens are employed, and it will be of great benefit to them. It will be completed at the end of next week.

To Present "Mrs. Wiggs."

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," the popular dramatization, in which Mrs. Madge Carr Cooke appeared at the Academy of Music, in Richmond, this season, will be presented during Easter week by the young people of the city. The first rehearsal of the play was held in the home of Miss Cora Patch, at Fifteenth and Porter streets, last night.

The cast includes some of the most prominent young ladies and gentlemen of the city, and the success of the undertaking is almost a foregone conclusion. Mrs. Cooke is training the cast, and rehearsals will be held semi-weekly from now until the date of the performance.

The proceeds of the entertainment will go to the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church.

HANGED AS SPY, HIS STILL LIVES

Rev. Mr. Mann Pays Visit to Richmond for First Time Since Civil War.

TRYING TO EARN LIVING

Sale of Pamphlets Is Small, However, and Stricken Veteran Leaves Empty-Handed.

A man who has had the unique and uncomfortable experience of being hanged by the neck, not until he was dead, but until he was nearly so, is a visitor in Richmond this week. Rev. J. T. Mann, a Baptist minister of Fitzgerald, Ga., went through the trying ordeal of being hanged as a spy at Baranacas, Fla., during the Civil War, and tells a thrilling story of his experiences in the Confederate service.

In late years Rev. Mr. Mann has suffered from paralysis of the throat and stomach, and is, therefore, unable to preach. He has written a number of pamphlets on religious topics related to his experience when on the gallows. He is in Richmond to sell copies of these writings, this being now his only means of support and of caring for an invalid sister, who is seventy-five years of age, and two years younger than himself. He is fully endorsed by Rev. Carl W. Minor, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Fitzgerald, Ga., and by the newspapers of that town.

His War Record.

Mr. Mann enlisted in the Confederate service at the age of twenty, on August 3, 1861, in Company Third Louisiana Battalion, and served throughout the war, having a checked career. At Gaines' Mill, near Richmond, he was shot in the back of the neck, a second ball passing between his hand and the gun. After the Second Manassas, he was again severely wounded, receiving a broken hip and thigh bone.

His experience with the hangman was on April 4, 1864, when in the hands of a Federal mob at Baranacas, Fla. In his pamphlet entitled "A Confederate Soldier Hanged as a Spy," Mr. Mann gives a graphic account of his service and of the causes leading to his capture as a Confederate spy, when on special service around the Pensacola Navy Yard, working under instructions from General D. H. Maury. After an ineffectual attempt to explode a Federal powder magazine, a crowd of infuriated Northerners seized and hanged him, and he immediately proceeded to the hanging, slipping a rope over a joist and pulling him up until his feet were off the ground. He was choked into a state of insensibility, and when life was nearly extinct was taken down by orders of a sergeant who assisted that he was the wrong person.

The minister described with careful minuteness the sensations he felt while being hanged, the swelling of every vein and blood vessel, as if about to explode, the tingling, pricking sensation of the nerves, and the agony that followed by a sense of relief amounting almost to a pleasurable sensation. Mr. Mann tells that in this stage, just previous to unconsciousness, there was a sweet taste in his mouth and a delightful sense of music in his ears.

The severe illness which he is now described as being even more painful than the hanging. "Every nerve seemed to have a pain of its own," says Mr. Mann. "My nose and fingers seemed to be the seats of the most excruciating agony of all. Yes, my nose was hanged. I am one of the few who live to tell of its sensations, not only those you experience when hanging at the end of a rope, but also of knowing that you are leaving this world."

Pathetic Case.

This is the first time Mr. Mann has been in this section since the Civil War. His case is one of the most pathetic that has ever come to the attention of Richmond people.

For years he has been traveling from place to place striving to earn a pittance by the sale of his two pamphlets, for which he asks 10 and 25 cents, respectively. Out of this small accumulation he has to pay railroad fare and boarding-house bills and with the residue support himself and his sister. Though the exertion is painful, he has to walk many miles in the week seeking purchasers for his little books. His slowness and difficulty of speech, resulting from his paralysis, is a serious obstacle. Busy men have not time to wait to listen to him and learn his true state. In Richmond, up to yesterday, he had sold just ten books—$1. He will stay here until Monday, and then set out for some other city, hoping there to have better success.

Church Hill Doctors ENJOY FINE BANQUET

Evangelist Garland Preaching to Large Audiences.

The revival services at Broadus Memorial Church, 3200 North Carolina street, attract large audiences. Evangelist R. D. Garland spoke last night on the subject, "No Compromise." The large gathering gave close attention throughout the evening, and joined throngs in the singing of a number of hymns. A number of fathers came forward to renew their vows and to pray. Six were received for baptism.

There will be one service to-day, preaching by Mr. Garland at 8 P. M.

The series of meetings will continue for several days, with special Sunday services, charge of the Rev. E. L. Grace, the pastor, and Evangelist Garland.

The usual fine of $10 was placed against a negro named William Holmes in the Police Court yesterday morning for beating a woman named Lucy Margaret Jones. She averred that he smote her, and the man denied the allegation.

ANIMALS HAD ROUGH TRIP ACROSS WATER AND SEVERAL DIED

"GENERAL," THE REMARKABLE LITTLE ELEPHANT TRAINER, AND TWO OF THE GREAT BEASTS WHO OBEY HIS WORD

The majority, though not all, of the wild animals shipped by Mr. Frank C. Bostock, in the Atlantic Transport Line steamer Minnesota, from his Paris hippodrome, are safe in Richmond, after an unusually tempestuous voyage to New York.

During the trip over three lions, two tigers and several other animals, which Mr. Bostock shipped but did not mention in his letter to Treasurer Schultz, died. Others which reached this side in safety were taken off at quarantine and will be held there for fifteen days, after which they will be allowed to continue their trip to Richmond.

According to international quarantine laws, no cloven-footed beast or animal can land in America until it has been again severely wounded, receiving a broken hip and thigh bone.

Medicos to Meet on Diamond This Week

Fast Game Expected Between Teams Representing Two Colleges Here.

Great interest is being manifested by the student bodies of the two medical colleges of the city in the coming baseball game between them on Saturday afternoon. The game will be played in Broad Street Park, the contest to begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock.

Both colleges have material on their respective teams out of which stars once sprang into the limelight when they were at some academic college, and their exhibition Saturday will be one well worth the seeing.

Mr. J. Mortimer Hughes is manager for the University College of Medicine team, and he is sure his men will win. Mr. Edward Rawls is manager of the nine of the Medical College of Virginia, and he is equally confident that his aggregation will come out victorious. There is not much to choose between the two teams, however, and a close game is expected.

The line-up of the University College of Medicine men will probably be as follows: Dunford, catcher; Roper, pitcher; Leake, shortstop; Watson, first base; Collier, second base; Smith, third base; Garner, centre field; Burton, left field; and T. E. Hughes, right field.

The line-up of the team of the Medical College of Virginia will be as follows, with two of the positions uncertain: Hoskins, Hinchman, pitcher; Burke, (Captain), Jones, catcher; Clements, first base; second base, uncertain; third base, Vansant; left field, Smith; right field, uncertain; centre field, Evans, and shortstop, Wallace.

Mr. Handy, of Richmond College, will umpire the game.

Pined for Beating Mule.

The case of Clarence Moss, charged with beating a mule with a whip, was disposed in the Police Court yesterday morning by the imposition of a fine of $10 on the negro. The star witness was the alert agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Mr. Emmett Taylor.

McEvoy Leaves.

Johnnie McEvoy, a former Brownie, and one of the best local baseball players in Richmond, has left to join his team in Vicksburg, Miss., of the Cotton States League. McEvoy is a good man, and there is little doubt that he will make the team.

CADETS OF V. P. I. CAN NOT ATTEND

Arrangements Made for Jamestown Will Prevent Corps from Coming to Reunion.

COL. GORDON DENIES REPORT

Committee Has Not Received Subscription from Hotel Men's Association.

It was with the deepest disappointment that Colonel John W. Gordon, chairman of the general committee having in charge the arrangements for the Confederate reunion, learned yesterday from Governor Swanson that the V. P. I. cadets will be unable to attend the reunion. In a letter to the Executive, President McBride says: "We learn unfortunately that the command and myself—that the arrangements we have already made at Jamestown will prevent our battalion of cadets taking part in the Confederate reunion March 20 to June 1. We have already closed arrangements with the Jamestown people and secured company grounds for our battalion from June 3d to June 8th inclusive, and have appointed our commencement exercises the latter part of the week preceding so as to close the session's work before we take the cadets to Norfolk."

Colonel Gordon still hopes to have the V. P. I. cadets in Richmond with the old soldiers, and will bend every energy in that direction.
